

THE REPORT

Of the Venezuela Commission is Virtually Completed, And Will Be in the Hands of the President in a Few Days.

Should the South American Republic Cordially August 26, 1902. Great Britain and the United States a Formal Report Only Necessary.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Without there being any direct official advice on the matter it is very evident that the report of the Venezuelan commission, which is now virtually completed, will be in possession of the president prior to the completion of the forthcoming message to congress. How the character of the commission's report may be changed from its present standing is a view of the friendly attitude of this country and England toward each other in the settlement of Venezuela's trouble is a subject of great diplomatic interest. That point appears to await official reports from the government at Caracas. Should the arbitration agreement between England and the United States prove acceptable to Venezuela the incident will be harmonious and will tend to all quarters and not tend to a recalling of past acrimony and recitals of more or less national disagreement that would be the result of circumstances called for detailed statements of the numerous points involved in the controversy as considered by the commissioners. The report of the South American republic cordially acquiescing in the decision of the two great powers bearing the brunt of the dissonance, a formal report only will be necessary. Judge Brewer, of the commission, was in consultation with the president Wednesday, presumably on the subject, but he declines to give any indication whatever of the purposes of his visit to the state department.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The Document Will Be Sent to Congress Tuesday.
CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—A Washington special to an evening paper says: President Cleveland completed his annual message Wednesday. It is said and the copy will go to the printer. Unusual precautions have been taken this year to keep the message from the public until they are formally proclaimed in the house. The contents of the foreign relations feature in the message are much in demand in speculative circles. Brokers have had trusted agents here from New York this week prying around the departments in an effort to learn the general tenor of the message on Cuban affairs. Nobody has any idea what the message will say in regard to Cuba, but the Secretary of the Interior, who has been in daily communication with the president, the printed message is expected to go for the full cabinet meeting Friday, December 4, and sent to congress Tuesday, December 8.

SECRETARY CARLISLE

May Renew the Issuance of Gold Certificates.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Assistant Secretary Carlisle has been in New York two days, but will be back again Friday. No information is vouchsafed at the department as to the cause for his visit to New York, but it is believed to be in connection with the proposed renewal of the issuance of gold certificates. It was generally understood at the department that upon the return of the assistant secretary, Secretary Carlisle would issue an order permitting the resumption of this practice, he having authority under the act of July 13, 1892, to stop the issue of gold certificates whenever the reserve fell below the $100,000,000 mark. The cessation of this issue has happened frequently during the past four years but it is now believed that the ordinary business of the treasury will interfere with practice that has been found convenient for the banking institutions of the country, particularly for those in the large cities.

There has been no stable gold balance since 1893. When Secretary Carlisle took office the treasury in March, 1898, there were $110,000,000 of gold certificates outstanding but they have been entirely withdrawn. When the resumption of the issue of gold certificates occurred there were $114,000,000 outstanding. This happened in April, 1899. Since that time the sale of bonds the gold reserve was replenished but only temporarily. On two different occasions the issue of gold certificates was resumed, but it was stopped at both times within two or three days after the order was made, permitting them. Then the secretary decided not to permit the issue until the balance was stable and devoid of the fluctuations that had marked it through a period of many years. The issue proposed consists of denominated in $100 and $500 notes, and will be issued to such persons as deposit the gold in the treasury upon which they are issued. These issues are largely used by the treasury to carry a large amount of the equivalent of gold without the bulk of the article itself and without the attendant losses by abrasion, etc.

BATTLESHIP KENTUCKY.

Harvested Nickel Steel Armor Plates to Be Used in Her Construction.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 26.—Thirteen hundred and thirty armor plates, which will be used in the construction of the battleship for the United States battleship Kentucky, were shipped Wednesday to San Francisco from Homestead Wednesday on thirteen cars especially constructed for the purpose. Each car contains one hundred plates, each of which is 15 inches thick, 10 feet high and 14 feet long, each weighing 45 tons. The battleship is to be built at the navy yard at San Francisco and the plates were completed in a shorter time than was ever before accomplished. The 13 cars will be rushed through to San Francisco by a special train, and are to be placed in the new battleship at the earliest time possible under instructions from the secretary of the navy. It was by special request of the secretary that they were completed so hurriedly.

THE TEXAS.

Doubtful Whether the Battleship Can Be Launched.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—While the findings of the naval court which investigated the recent foundering of the battleship Texas have not yet reached the navy department, it is learned that without extensive alterations it is doubtful whether the ship can be launched. It is in this state, Texas can be ordered to sea. It is an derelict that evidence was adduced to show that 61 of her compartments leaked when the engine room was flooded and that a leak sprung in any one of them at sea would have surely caused the total loss of the ship. Not only were all the alleged "water tight" doors found to be abortive, but in the opinion of at least one member of the court, her whole bulkhead system is utterly useless.

A BATTLE

Near Mount Rubia, Twenty-Six Miles West of Havana.

The Government Forces Were Divided Into Three Detachments.

One of 5,000 Men, Another of 10,000 and a Third of 30,000. First Detachment Defeated—Insurgents Retreated While the Second Stormed Montalva.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The War line steamship City of Washington, which arrived Wednesday from Havana, brought some interesting news of the engagement which occurred recently near Mount Rubia, between the Spanish troops and the insurgent forces headed by Gen. Maceo.

Last Saturday the government organ La Gaceta called for trains to convey 10,000 wounded and sick soldiers from Calidra to Havana. This was the first intimation that had been received that the engagement had been serious in its results. One of the passengers on the City of Washington for obvious reasons did not wish to have his name mentioned, gave an interesting account of how the battle was fought, and to the great extent, it is thought, explains why Gen. Weyler returned to Havana so soon.

Mount Rubia is 26 miles west of Havana and about 13 miles from the northern coast of the island. Gen. Weyler had spread his troops across the island in its narrowest part to prevent Maceo's forces moving toward the east. Then the remaining forces were divided into three detachments, one of 5,000 men, another of 10,000 and the third of 20,000, the latter being led by Gen. Weyler himself. These detachments moved toward the mountains from different directions. The detachment of 5,000 men, which was the smallest and with heavy fighting, was repulsed by Maceo's forces, with 700 wounded and it is not known how many dead. When the second detachment of 10,000 men under command of Gen. Echague arrived and began to storm the mountain they found that the enemy had disappeared. Gen. Weyler, who approached from the trocha, did not have a chance to smolder.

Details are lacking, but it appears that Maceo had another engagement west of Mount Rubia, in which 1,000 of the Spanish troops were wounded. Five hundred of the wounded were brought into Havana by rail and two hundred were brought by water, leaving 1,000 sick and wounded still in the field. Weyler's failure to locate Maceo would appear to have been the cause of his hasty return to Havana.

GEN. WEYLER

Has the Support of the Spanish Authorities in His Campaign in Cuba.

MADRID, Nov. 26.—In an interview Wednesday upon the subject of the return from the Pinar del Rio province to Havana of Capt. Gen. Weyler, Prime Minister of the Spanish government, he said that he entirely supported the course pursued by Gen. Weyler. The premier ridiculed the idea that Weyler would be superseded as captain general of Cuba because of his return to Havana and declared that the captain general's initiative should be respected. Weyler, he said, had advanced operations in the island for the purpose of allaying the impatience manifested by the public, and despite the disadvantages under which he labored, had driven the insurgents out of their fastnesses. Far from the plan of the captain general's campaign having proved a failure, it was a fact that when he arrived in Havana to succeed Capt. Gen. Capote, the insurgents in Cuba were a numerous body; whereas, from the time of his assuming command there had been only a few scattered bands of the rebels, which had been constantly pursued and harassed by the Spanish cavalry. Senor Canovas further stated that he did not approach Gen. Weyler as minister of war, upon the question of succeeding Gen. Weyler, as such a course would imply lack of confidence on the part of the government in the captain general.
